Can insurance protect the world against climate change?

Filthy in some places, plenty of people in other regions welcome the weather and other climate impacts as a sign of warming. Making insurance customers out of everyone seems a key development for a protection-minded climate future. Yet forming a customer base in the face of public skepticism over climate change can be tricky. This may help - http://www.economist.com/video/2017-08-14/Can insurance protect the world against climate change?

---

COMMITTED TO IMPROVING THE STATE OF THE WORLD

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.

---

Commit to climate action and join The World Economic Forum's Action Platform.