Event

Come along to the UNU Library!

Do you know about the United Nations University?
When was it built in Tokyo?
What activities does it carry out?
Who works there?

Come along to the United Nations University Library children's summer event to find out. The United Nations University Library is offering a fun-filled afternoon with a book reading, a tour of the building including the U Thant International Conference Hall – which seats 364 people – and an information session with staff and students who work and study at the United Nations University. There will also be a craft activity using recycled newspaper.
